

The symbolist tradition in English literature

This major and acclaimed study of the symbolist tradition in England focuses on the years 1850 to 1900 and discusses the poetry of such as William Morris, O'Shaughnessy, the Rossetti, Swinburne, Wilde and Yeats, paintings by Holman Hunt, Millais, Rossetti, Burne-Jones and others, and critical works by Keble, Ruskin, Carlyle, Arnold, Pater and Arthur Symonds. It begins by considering the changes from romantic symbol through Victorian 'type' and 'emblem' to late romantic image, proceeding from this theoretical groundwork to discuss questions of symbolist form and style as well as dominant themes and motifs like the imaginary landscape, the ideal beloved, and manifestations of the symbolist spirituality. This study of both literature and the visual arts is comparative in nature, attempting to establish an English symbolist tradition as part of an international development linking the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Available now for the first time in English translation, Lothar Hönigshausen's book includes illustrations and a survey of critical works since 1971, defining major research issues and offering suggestions for future work.
